Bloodmobile Unit Schedule Cameron Visit April 22

Cameron's second visit from the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit is scheduled for Wednesday, April 22. This is the unit's first return to Cameron since December 13.

It has been stressed by the leaders of this movement that the blood taken here in Cameron is for local use as well as for national defense and the production of gamma globulin. Should anyone in Milam county be injured or sick and need blood, it will be furnished free of charge by the regional Red Cross Bank in Waco. This regional bank receives its blood from donors who give to the mobile unit on its periodic visits to the different towns of the region.

Should a Milam County resident be injured out of county or even out of state, due to the fact that Milam County is a member of the regional blood bank, that person could still receive blood on a moment's notice. The blood would be furnished by the nearest blood bank to the accident and then later replaced by the regional blood bank in Waco.

The same as any other bank, this regular blood bank cannot operate without depositors. They depend wholly on donors in their region for blood. The mobile unit is staffed with highly trained technicians and nurses and a licensed physician is in charge at all times when the unit is in operation.

Giving blood is painless and harmless. According to the Red Cross officials, donations can be made as often as every two months.

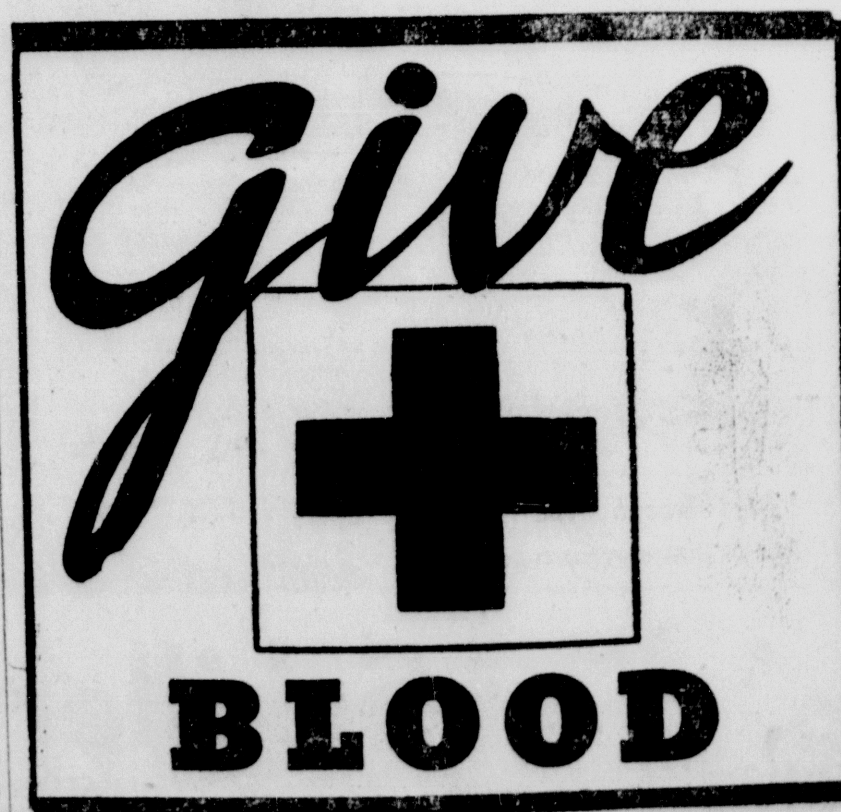

All persons between the ages of 18 and 60 are urgently requested to contact Rev. John Solomon, Donor Recruitment Chairman for Cameron.

Mack C. Miller Is Arrested On Theft And Burglary Charges

Charges have been filed against Mack C. Miller for burglary and theft from the Rockdale Colored School. The theft occurred Sunday night when Miller forced an entry into the principal's and superintendent's office. He broke open a Dr. Pepper vendor and took the coins inside.

Police Chief Ed Sexton arrested Miller Thursday night.

Death losses on the range can be prevented, during the early spring when poisonous plants commence growing, through the use of good range management practices.

Poultry Review

Higher production and more positive culling make this possible. Good cage operators on the Purina Plan are producing eggs on 4.8 to 5 lbs. feed per dozen. Most floor managed hens take 6 lbs. or even more.

At the Alabama Agricultural Experimental Station, the following difference was recorded in hens that died during the year:

- Hens kept on the floor 18%
- Hens kept in cages 3.5%

Cage operators have a big advantage here because birds in cages are less subject to disease, have very little picking, and usually are culled before they go down in health and condition.

A poultryman keeping hens in the usual type of house fills it in the fall and by the next summer the total number of birds has been reduced between 40 and 50% due to culling and mortality. Furthermore, the poultryman has to have a lot of brooding equipment to raise his chicks all at one time. The cage operator keeps his cages full the year round. He needs only one-sixth as much brooding and growing space and equipment because he starts a small batch of chicks every other month.

The cage operator keeps the same number of hens the year round, so has a uniform number of eggs to sell each month. Since he starts chicks every other month, his growing costs are spread through the year. They are not concentrated into the spring and summer months, just when the income from eggs is lowest.

In cage operations, eggs roll down the sloping wire floors to little baskets, where they quickly cool. There are no dirty nests or mud on hens' feet to soil the eggs. Thus the labor of cleaning eggs is reduced. And, since cage eggs are so clean and fresh they easily sell at top prices.

Roundworms, lice, mites and coccidiosis are easily prevented because hens stay on clean wire.

Every Veteran of World War I or II and Korea, who have service disabilities 10% or more are entitled to from $17.25 to $172.50 per month.

Area 8 FHA Meeting Attended By Members Of Cameron Chapter

Fourteen members and two sponsors of the Cameron FHA chapter attended the Area 8 FHA meeting held in Waco Hall at Baylor University March 28. Nine hundred ninety persons representing 77 chapters were present.

Frances Vogelsang of Cameron, FHA 5th State Vice-President, gave the invocation. Installation of officers for the coming year was a part of the program to follow. Martha Collins of this city was installed as historian for Area 8. Miss Vogelsang has served as Area 8 civil defense chairman for the past year. Mrs. Imogene Whatley, FHA sponsor of Cameron, was elected from District 4 to be one of the four adults to receive honorary memberships in Area 8.

Those attending the meeting from Cameron were the sponsors, Mrs. Whatley and Miss Patsy Skein, and members Frances Vogelsang, Mary Hensley, Martha Collins, Ethelene Moran, Helen Stall, Ailene Burnett, Wilma Krumeke, Jane Henderson, Barbara Juergens, Betty Sanders, Frances Cadell, Mabel Tipton, Barbara Simmons, and Charlene Sommers. Les Wallace drove a bus to take the chapter to Waco.

Seven persons from Cameron plan to attend the State FHA meeting in San Antonio from April 30 to May 2. Mary Hensley and Frances Vogelsang will receive state degrees at this meeting. Others from Cameron attending will be Ethelene Moran, Mayselle Rey, nolds, and Barbara Juergens. Sponsors for the trip are Mrs. Imogene Whatley and Miss Patsy Skein.

Terraces Prevent Erosion

Approximately one mile of large channel-type terraces have been completed on the T. F. Cloud farm which is located one and one-half miles northeast of Cameron. Fifteen acres of cultivated land is protected from gully erosion by this system of terraces. A large motor grader was used for the construction. Outlets of these terraces are protected from erosion by permanent pasture which is an ideal place to empty terrace water for the native vegetation eliminates gullying at the outlet end of the terraces.

FARM PONDS CHECKED

Farm Ponds were recently checked for completion by soil conservation technicians on the following farms in the Jones Prairie community: Marvin Hickman, Alma White, Ben Massengale, and Mildred Martin. Better grazing and water distribution will result on the above mentioned farms from the construction of these ponds.

Weather conditions in most sections of the state during late spring are favorable for doing the outside painting jobs on the farm.

House Committee Hears Judge Smith On Lignite Bill

In an interview Friday County Judge Charles C. Smith, Jr., reported that he spent Wednesday in Austin testifying before the House Corporation Committee hearing testimony on House Bill 682. Smith testified against the bill and stated that, in his opinion, it would not be passed.

This bill pertains to a tax on lignite and will have a very definite effect on Milam County should it be passed. As Smith put it, it would be trying to kill the goose that laid the golden egg before the goose was even seen. The use of lignite to produce electric power is still in the experimental stage, and any tax placed on the raw product might make the experiment too expensive to continue, said Smith.

He also stated that he had spent two days in Austin this last week testifying before the committee on re-districting. In Smith's opinion Robertson County will form with Milam County to form a new district.

New Permanent Pasture

Five acres of waterway have been seeded to K. R. Bluestem grass on the Steve Polzer farm in the Salem community. A seeding rate of four pounds per acre was used. The waterway borders a large gully which was caused from emptying terrace water in a small ditch which was not vegetated prior to terrace construction. After K. R. Bluestem becomes established, the water from the old terraces will be blocked out of the old gully and diverted into the grassed waterway. This waterway is planned to be fenced with permanent pasture which will give Mr. Polzer five additional acres for permanent pasture.

RATTLESNAKE, MOST MISUNDERSTOOD OF CREATURES

The rattlesnake has inspired about as many stories as any creature of Texas. Here are a few of the most common sayings about the rattler, varying from the scientific truth to the ridiculous:

A rattlesnake will not crawl over a hair rope: Many traveling pioneers placed grass ropes around their pallets when sleeping on the ground, and slept without fear of reptiles. Their deliverance was due to luck or some other factor. It has been proven that a rattlesnake will not crawl even a few inches to avoid crawling over such a rope. Rattlers do not hesitate to crawl over prickly substances. They are, however, inclined to avoid human beings and their odor. The theory has been advanced that the snakes may have refused to cross the ropes because they carried the odor of people, due to handling. If this story is true, clothes or bedding might have served as well, or even better.

Whiskey is good snakebite medicine: True, if administered properly. The Encyclopedia Americana states: "Small and frequent doses of whiskey, strychnine or ammonia should be administered as a stimulant, but an excess of alcohol may increase the depression."

You can tell the age of rattlesnake by the number of joints in the rattle: False. It is true that each time the serpent molts a new ring and button are added. But a well-fed snake may slough three or four times a year. Also the rings sooner or later become worn out and drop off.

Prairie dogs, small owls, and rattlers live together in the same hole: Owls and rabbits do use the holes of prairie dogs—but after the dogs have abandoned them. Charles Goodnight reported that: "When the rattler reported his intention to swallow the dog, which he does, and my observation is that a dog will not enter his hole when there is a rattler in it, which he probably knows by scent." Goodnight stated that he had placed dead rattlers in holes, and later found them thoroughly covered with dirt. It was his belief that the dogs tried to cover the holes when they knew a snake was inside. For, as he said, "If you slowly pour dirt in on a rattler, he will make his appearance promptly."

Injured rattlers will commit suicide by biting themselves: There is a difference of opinion, among naturalists, as to whether snakes are susceptible to their own venom when injected into their blood. There are accounts, from reputable sources, of rattlers biting themselves and then dying. Some authorities contend that injury to the spinal nerve or some vital organ may have caused deaths rather than poison. Most snake experts say that it is not probable that any snake ever intentionally commits suicide.

Rattlesnakes give intentional warning: No. The rattler is no such gentleman. It is believed that the vibration of his tail is a nervous action over which he has no control. The Encyclopedia Americana says of the rattle: "... It is probably little more than a recognition character, which helps to segregate the species."

A rattlesnake will grow another fang in the event he loses one: This seems to be the case, though actually it is not true. Behind each of the large front fangs is a succession of smaller reserve fangs which become functional, in order, as their predecessors are lost.

Newly-borne rattlesnakes seek refuge from danger in the mouth and throat of its mother: Generally speaking this is not true. However, the massasauga, a small and now comparatively rare variety of the rattler family, is reported on acceptable authority to practice this method of presence of danger.

The pilot snakes pilot the rattler: About the only known connections — they haunt the same places and eat similar food. A few other erroneous sayings: The pilot snake is a "neuter" rattlesnake that devotes its time as a scout for the rattler. It is a companion snake for the rattler — traveling with it for company. It is hybrid resulting from a cross between the rattlesnake and bull snake. All of which indicates that you can hear almost anything about the rattlesnake and its "associates."

The speed at which you may drive safely depends upon how crowded the road is, how far you can see, the condition of the road, the condition of your automobile, and the condition of the driver.

50th Anniversary Muster Of Former Aggies April 21

Former students of the A&M College of Texas who live in Milam County will gather at the Milam Coffee Shop in Cameron, Texas, Tuesday, April 21, 1953 at 8 p. m. to carry on a tradition that is 50 years old. They will attend the 50th anniversary Muster of Texas A&M Men.

The Milam County Muster will be one of more than 400 similar ceremonies held all over the world where Texas A&M College former students pay homage to their fellow Aggies who have passed on, and humble tribute to the Texans who won the freedom of the State at the Battle of San Jacinto near Houston some 117 years ago.

Niley J. Smith, chairman of the Muster, urges all A&M men to attend the April 21 Muster program.

The April 21 Muster is one of the greatest traditions to be found in American colleges and universities, and thousands of A&M men participate in the program of tribute and homage each year.

Draft Board News

Austin, Texas.—Separation of Texans from the armed forces during March exceeded draft and reported enlistments by 15 persons, Brigadier General Paul L. Wakefield, state draft director, said Friday.

Individual reports of separation from the armed forces received by state Selective Service headquarters during March totaled 6,789, while enlistments and inductions reported totaled 6,774. Of this number, 3,056 were drafted.

"The role of the draft boards these days is to help keep the armed forces up to strength, not make them bigger," General Wakefield said. "For every man who is getting out nowadays, we have to get another in some way."

Records of state draft headquarters show that entries of Texans into the armed forces in February exceeded separations by five per cent, in January by 17 per cent.

Individual reports of separation and enlistment are forwarded by all armed services to state draft headquarters whether the individuals are registered with a draft board or not.

The Air Force led in reported enlistment of Texans during March, with the Army second. Following are the reported enlistments by service for the month: Air Force, 1,614; Army, 881; Navy, 640; Marine Corps, 556; Coast Guard, 27.

The Army and Air Force separated more Texans than any other services.

18 Month Time Limit Set Before Old Age Payments Can be Made

Federal Old-Age and Survivors Insurance provides insurance protection to most people who work for a living, either as employees or as self-employed persons. During your working years, you will make social security tax contributions to provide an income for yourself and for your family, in case of your death. More than 66 million persons now have this insurance protection.

Workers who are already age 65 or over, need have only six quarters of coverage in order to qualify for old-age insurance benefits in the event of retirement from employment or self-employment. Any worker who has at least a year and a half of work covered by social security is insured now, and his insurance protection will last until July 1, 1954. After that, a person under age 65 must work an average of six months out of every year to retain his insured status. After about 10 years of covered work, a person is insured for life.

This insurance is afforded not only to the qualified worker when he retires at age 65 or later, but also to his survivors in the event of his death at any age. Four out of five mothers in the nation now have the protection of survivors insurance under social security for themselves and their minor children in the event of the death of the family breadwinner.

Yoe High Band Gives Concert At Belton

Belton.—The Cameron Yoemen, a band composed of 90 high and grammar school students under the direction of Francis Cox, gave a concert Tuesday in Alma Reeves Chapel before an appreciative audience of Mary Hardin-Baylor students, faculty, and guests.

The Yoemen, rated among the top school bands of Texas, began the program with three numbers which they will play in the State high school band contest at Waco in the near future. Several popular selections followed.

Sensitive to mood and to direction, the band showed excellent training. The trombone section was outstanding and all sections were well balanced, playing with care and finesse unusual for so young a group, said Miss Phyllis Carpenter of MH-B's instrumental department. Such a fine group is rarely found in a small community. Miss Carpenter pointed out. The high school has an enrollment of 300, Mr. Cox, the band director stated.

The band has previously appeared at MH-B and its concerts are among the high spots in student assemblies.

Mrs. Francis Cox, the former Hazel Caste, is an ex-student of Mary Hardin-Baylor.

County Judge Charles C. Smith, Jr., has been named Milam County Mental Health Fund campaign chairman, it was announced in Dallas by R. L. Wheelock of Corsicana, state campaign chairman. The campaign will be conducted throughout the month of May with a concentration of effort during Mental Health Week—designated by congressional resolution and gubernatorial proclamation, May 3 to 9.

The Milam County quota is only $100. The Texas quota is $148,796. This is the first campaign ever attempted by either of the co-sponsors, the Texas Society for Mental Health and the National Association for Mental Health.

Funds raised will be used to broaden the scope of mental health work at local, state and national levels.

Wheelock called attention that time was short and that many people would not be personally contacted but said that anyone wishing to donate could do so by addressing their contribution to Mental Health care any Texas postmaster, and the funds will be received and acknowledged.

why Smokeless broiling?

Here is a simple demonstration that points the way to cleaner, cooler cooking.

SEE THAT SMOKE FROM THE CIGARETTE? Smoke also comes from broiling foods. For as they cook, fats burn and smoke. The high heat does it—whether it is flame or non-flame broiling.

SEE ANY SMOKE ABOVE THE FLAME? There isn't any because it was consumed by the flame. And you don't have any when you broil with gas. In gas ranges, as in this demonstration, the flame consumes the smoke.

Moreover, flame broiling is cooler, for the broiler door is kept tightly closed during broiling process.

Soil Conservation Program In Taylor Showing Progress

Taylor Soil Conservation District extends into that part of Milam County that falls into the Conservation problem area known as the Forested Coastal Plains. This is in the south and south eastern part of the country. The soil here is known as the sandy timbered soils; they have a low fertility and water holding power and the organic matter either leaches or is burned out quickly. Continuous row cropping has caused farmers to have to retire many acres of land and today thousands of acres are growing only short season grasses and weeds. This condition presents the Taylor Soil Conservation District with a serious conservation problem and the District supervisors are eager to offer all facilities and services that the District has, to give this land the treatment it needs and to get all the land into its proper use.

W. W. Balhorn cooperating with the District has a conservation program going that is working. He has been seeding clovers in the old cropland and pastures. Where he has seeded and added either fertilizer or organic matter the results have been much better. Balhorn plans to seed some of the old fields to the better grasses later but he wants to condition the soil, and improve it before spending money on grass seed. Vetch and rye will be seeded this fall to serve as winter pasture and part of his soil improving program.

Charlie Robinson, another District cooperator has been planting some Abruscia rye. It looks good and is a crop that works well in the conservation and soil improvement plans of most farms in the sandy soils of Taylor soil conservation district.

Poultry-minded citizens of Milam County were guests of the Poultry Committee of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce Friday in a tour of several Central Texas installations concerned in the production of eggs by the cage method.

Those towns visited by the group included Temple, Belton, Little River, Bartlett, and Jonah. The group left Cameron about 1:30 p. m. and returned about 7:30.

Those who went on the tour were Leo Fuchs, William F. Arthur, Roy Wright, Rollan Carr, Sam Brewer, Victor Hughes, J. D. Moore, Milton Brown, L. G. Smith, all of Cameron. Others present included Bill Mitchell of Rockdale and Roy Ford of Temple.

They were led by Leo Fuchs, chairman of the Poultry Committee.

First stop on the tour was the Ray Humbert farm near Temple. Humbert showed them through his plant in which he was caging 168 chickens in an old barn converted to cage production. It has been five months since Humbert started his project and he estimates that he has approximately $4.05 per bird invested up till now.

Next stop was at a factory in which the cages are manufactured, owned by C. F. Hedrick. The factory is located near Belton. Out here the group witnessed the actual manufacture of the cages. Price of the cages has been set at $1.25 complete and assembled. Hedrick stated that his average production was from 150 to 200 cages a day and that he is now 60 days behind demand in his production.

Following the visit to Belton, the group went to Little River where they visited the chicken farm owned by Charles Dyer. Dyer had 218 cages of which 100 were filled with producing birds. It was noted at the Dyer farm that the eggs,

After leaving the Dyer farm, the group journeyed to Bartlett where they visited the Steglich Feed Store. Steglich had four demonstration hens in cages which had been in production for eight months. They showed an average production of about 70% or an average of 20 eggs per month per hen. These hens were producing one dozen eggs on about 3 1/4 pounds of feed which amounts to a feed cost of about 20c per dozen. The average feed ratio for floor production is about 4 1/4 pounds of feed or about 26c per dozen.

Next came the visit to the A. T. Raeke farm just east of Bartlett. Raeke had 180 birds in production in a building 22 by 32 feet. He estimated that his cost of getting the chickens into production, including both feed costs and the cost of the chickens, was about $1.80 each. The house cost him $272, the cages $232.80. Raeke stated that during the month of March his 180 hens produced 2,365 eggs or an average of 73 eggs per day. However, his first egg had come from this group of pullets on only February 26, so March was actually the first month of production for these pullets. He stated that on Thursday, April 9, he gathered 116 eggs and that the largest number of eggs gathered in one day had been 119 or 66% production.

The last stop on the tour was at the farm of Everette Lidel near Jonah. Lidel is preparing for production with 1,044 birds in cages. He had built a new house 24 by 159 feet at a cost of $2200 or a per hen housing cost of $1.80. The cages to fill this house were installed at a cost of $1305 or $1.25 per bird. He estimates that his feed cost and the cost of the bird will run $1.80 from the time he gets his chicks until the birds are in production. He estimates that

THE LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER SAYS NEW PILL TO WARD OFF EFFECTS OF ATOM BOMB IS BIG MISTAKE

Editor's note: The Little River Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm at Marlow apparently has his tongue in his cheek this week, although there's always the possibility it could be something else, say chewing tobacco.

Dear editor:

The trouble with scientists is that they're always workin' against each other and for every step one of em makes toward progress another one of em takes a step to head him off. We don't get anywhere.

Take the atom bomb. Here we had a fine instrument of civilization, you might say the peak of civilized ingenuity in so far as eliminatin' more people at one time is concerned, civilization these days you know been measured not only by the greatest good for the greatest he will begin production in about six weeks from now. Overall, Lidel estimates that his average cost per bird from the time he first received his chicks to the time they will begin producing will be $3.85 each.

The tour ended at Jonah and from there the group returned to Cameron.

number but the greatest number bumped off in the shortest time.

The atom bomb, you might say, was the ultimate dream of the first cave man who dropped a rock off a cliff on the head of his neighbor. It multiplied a man's power so many times he could now eliminate people by cities instead of hand-falls. It looked like we might be gettin' somewhere toward scarin' the daylight out of each other and cowerin' us into final world peace.

And what happens? We spend billions of dollars and endless hours of scientific research to get it perfected and then what?

Some scientist not willin' to let well enough alone gets busy and invents a pill to counteract the effect of the atom bomb's most valuable aspects, its ability to send mysterious rays out and kill people merely by radiation. According to an account I read in a paper yesterday, all you have to do now is take this pill before an atom bomb goes off and, if you're out of the immediate vicinity where the thing explodes, you're safe from the devastating radiation that used to make the bomb such a masterful instrument of slaughter.

I tell you, that pill has set us back twenty-five years. Now we've got to start all over again and work out something to add to the bomb that'll overcome the effect of the pill, and as sure as we do some scientist will develop another pill to overcome that, and civilization will be right back where it was before. I wish scientists would make up their minds. We'll never get anywhere this way.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Spell petrochemical the easy way...

P-R-O-G-R-E-S-S

Progress in finding and producing oil is an old story to the oil country. Nearly everybody has heard about the oil industry's day-to-day miracles in exploration and production.

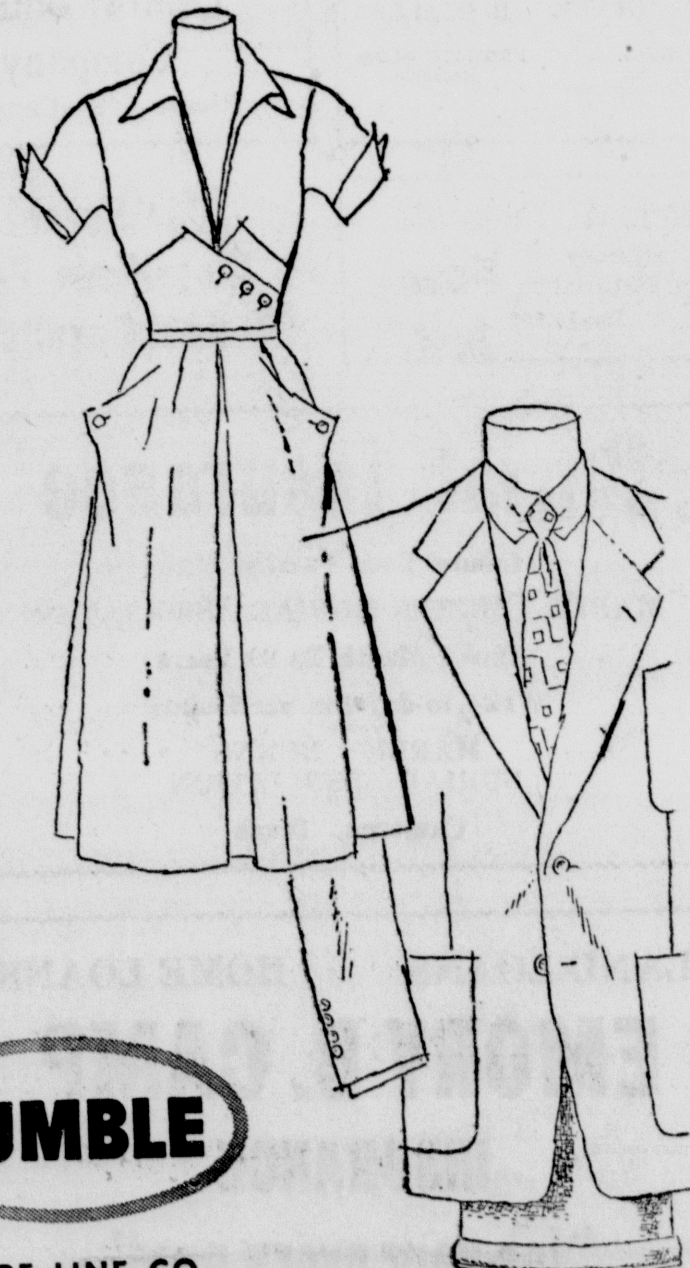

Now we all have a new series of miracles to wonder at — the transformation of petroleum hydrocarbons into chemical products of astonishing variety. These chemicals from petroleum have even added a new word to the American vocabulary — petrochemical.

Progress in the field has been amazing. The capital investment in new industries based on the petrochemicals has mounted to hundreds of millions. The new plants have created thousands of new jobs. And petrochemicals, as an industry, have provided a wider, a more complete, use of the country's oil resources.

Butadiene and butyl for synthetic rubber, toluene for TNT, solvents, aldehydes, and many other petrochemicals — even alcohols — are now produced in oil refineries. For example, the Humble Company, at its Baytown, Texas, refinery, is building facilities to manufacture paraxylene, the raw material for the new fabric called dacron.

The day may come, and very quickly, when you can be clothed from tip to toe in synthetic fabrics derived from petroleum; when petrochemicals provide the rubber for your tires, the plastics for your car's interior fittings, the fabric for the seat covers, the vehicle for body paint and polish.

The petrochemicals spell progress... progress to which the oil industry contributes research, capital, manufacturing facilities and, most importantly, an enterprising spirit.

Winter Wheat Estimate Up

Washington, April 16.—The Agriculture Department Friday forecast a 1953 winter wheat crop of 714,154,000 bushels, up 17 per cent from earlier estimates in spite of continued drought in the Great Plains.

A crop this size, however, would still be the smallest in 10 years. Added to a prospective 310 million bushel spring wheat crop the winter wheat output estimated Friday would bring total wheat production this year to 1,024,154,000 bushels.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

By Herman Yezak

Governor Shivers vetoed a bill that would allow corporations to be formed for dual purposes of drilling wells for oil and water.

A House bill passed exemption radio and television stations from liability in cases where candidates might be offended during political campaigns.

The committee considering several congressional redistricting proposals has failed to approve a redistricting plan. It is very doubtful if the committee will agree on a redistricting bill in time for its consideration by the House before the end of the session in May.

The public hearing on the three bills raising school teachers pay attracted an estimated crowd of 1200. The committee contended that it could not act until the general appropriation bill was finally passed and certified.

The proposed clean competition act was given a public hearing by the State Affairs Committee. The bill was sent to the Attorney General for a ruling on its constitutionality. It would prohibit stores from selling goods below cost.

A constitutional amendment to require every motor vehicle owner to pay an ad valorem tax has come up for consideration on the floor of the House and action on the measure was postponed for a week.

The section of the Berry tax bill that deals with taxing lignite and coal was given a hearing on April 8. Several citizens from Milam County appeared before the committee in opposition to the tax on lignite and coal. The rate of tax advocated was five cents a ton.

A bill received approval by the education committee that would allow up to five years of military service to be counted towards experience in computing minimum base pay for teachers. Persons getting teaching credit would be required to enter the teaching profession or college training to become a teacher within one year after discharge.

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR YOU CAN'T BEAT A

Pontiac

A GENERAL MOTORS MASTERPIECE

Its Great Name Makes Its Price Remarkable!

Consider the respect in which the name Pontiac is held—then consider that this great car is priced only a few dollars above the lowest—and you can come to only one conclusion: that here, indeed, is the biggest value your automobile dollar can buy.

The reason is very simple: Pontiac is the one car deliberately engineered to give you features of the costliest cars at a price right next to the lowest. This has been true for years—but never more evident than in the wonderful new 1953 Pontiac.

You see proof of this in its distinctive Dual-Streak styling, in its luxurious color-keyed interiors, and in its longer wheelbase and road-hugging weight. You see it even more when you get behind the wheel and realize that under the hood there's more power than you'll ever likely need. And as the years and the miles roll by, you get the most positive evidence of all in its amazingly low maintenance cost.

Why not take your first step toward enjoying the pride and pleasure of Pontiac ownership by investigating Pontiac's modest cost? You'll quickly see that so low a price on so great a car represents a truly remarkable value. Come in at your first opportunity. You'll be very glad you did.

Skala In Korea Writes Thanking Clarkson HDC

Below is a letter from Henry Skala who is stationed with the Army in Korea. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skala of Clarkson.

Korea
March 16, 1953

Dear Mrs. Matyastik,
I wish to express my thanks to the Home Demonstration Club members that took part in preparing the package which I received today. This package came in handy because we are on a seven day problem and are living temporarily in pup tents. Probably next Sunday we are going to move back to our old area and live in large tents.

There is some snow still on the mountains and the nights are pretty cold, but the weather is not near as cold as it has been.

We are in the reserve at the present time and have been off the lines since January 27. Also we are stationed about 50 miles north, east of Seoul, which is the Capitol City of South Korea.

Well, I haven't got much to write so will bring this letter to an end. Again I say many, many thanks for the package.

With best wishes,
Your friend,
Henry.

Delphian, Pleasure Profit Clubs Hear Traffic Safety Talk

The Delphian and the Pleasure and Profit Clubs met in joint session Thursday at 4 p. m. in the Banquet Room of the Milam Coffee Shop.

Upon their arrival the members were served lime punch and cookies by Mrs. Gillis Graham and Mrs. Richard Moseley. The serving table was tastefully decorated with potted plants.

Mrs. Carroll Green, president of the Delphian Club, opened the meeting and welcomed the visitors. The members were urged to participate in the coming cancer drive. Representatives had been appointed to attend the cancer society meeting Thursday night. Mrs. Green then turned the meeting over to Mrs. LeRoy Thompson, president of the Pleasure and Profit Club. Mrs. Thompson introduced Mrs. Jud Collier of Mumford, speaker for the meeting.

Mrs. Collier, State Chairman for Safety from the Texas Federated Women's Clubs, spoke on traffic safety. She stated that highway accidents kill more people than the eight leading diseases combined, and that Texas has more traffic accidents than any other state. Mrs. Collier stressed that it is the individual insistence on using speed, rather than the speed itself, which causes wrecks. As the human factor cannot be eliminated, it must be considered in the training of citizens for public safety, she said. Mrs. Collier concluded her talk by telling of the program in progress to emphasize safety by means of the "Three E's": Education, Engineering and Enforcement.

Mrs. Black is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Floca of Temple. She is a graduate of Temple High School, attended Christian College, Columbia, Missouri, and received her B. A. Degree from Texas University where she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Clinton Black of Cameron, Texas. He is a graduate of Cameron High School, has received his BBA Degree, MS Degree in Economics, and is now attending Baylor University of Law where he is a member of Phi Alpha Delta, Legal Fraternity. Mr. Black served in the Naval Air Corps during World War II and is now an Ensign in Naval Air Reserve.

Classic arrangements of white anthurium in the brass altar vases and white cathedral tapers in brass candelabra decorated the altar for the candlelight ceremony. Smilax entwined the Rood Screen which was flanked at the center and at either end by seven branch candelabra.

Prelude organ selections were played by Mrs. James Howard, who also rendered the traditional processional and recessional marches. Mrs. Howard accompanied Miss Helen Blount, of Austin, who gave the vocals, "Oh Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride and her wedding party approached the altar through the white carpeted aisle, on each side of which stood tall white standards holding cathedral tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of imported French hand-run alencon lace over Italian silk satin. The gown was fashioned with a wide scoop neckline with cutout designs of the lace at its edge. The tiny cap sleeves were complimented with long lace mitts. The moulded bodice was buttoned down the back with the lace tulle covered buttons. The lace tulle skirt was moulded in princess fluid lines and was poised over the satin skirt that extended to a wide circular train. Her veil of imported French illusion was a long fingertip length and was attached to an alencon lace bonnet, the tiny brim as a frame for her face. The bride carried her white Prayer Book which was overlaid with lilies of the valley, centered with a yellow-throated white orchid.

Miss Ann Henderson, of Waco, attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Wallace Elred, Mrs. John Lusk, Jr., and Miss Patsy Cox of Temple; Mrs. Tom Lee of Houston, and Miss Martha Black, sister of the groom, of Cameron.

The attendants wore identical gowns of layered nylon tulle in pale yellow. These were fashioned with a halter neckline, accenting the moulded bodice. The floor length layered tulle skirts were extremely bouffant, and the matching swag that draped the shoulders was worn across the shoulders for the ceremony. Their hats were fashioned from matching yellow velvet leaves and they carried classic crescent styled bouquets of white anthurium with glazed ivy trails.

Roy McDermott, of Fort Worth, cousin of the groom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Theodore Floca, brother of the bride, John Lusk, Jr., and Bill Howell of Temple; Lawson Clark of Corpus Christi, and Tom McLeod of Corpus Christi.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Floca chose a ribbon embroidered Peau D'Ange lace dress. This was a sheath fashioned with a low oval neckline and short sleeves. Her hat was a half calot in the same shade and she wore long white gloves and satin shoes. Her corsage was an orchid. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Black, chose a sea foam green cady of matching dress with yoke underlay of matching satin. The Pompadour collar complimented the simple fitted bodice and flared skirt. Her hat was mistic pink nylon tulle embroidered with paillettes. Mrs. Black wore long matching pink kid gloves and a pink orchid shoulder corsage.

The wedding reception following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride's parents where the

Rent Increases May Be Available If Landlord Can Qualify

If landlords in Rockdale and Cameron can qualify, they may receive rent increases by applying at the local Office of Rent Stabilization, Mr. Goeman, area director, has announced.

The 1952 Housing and Rent Act includes six major provisions under which landlords may request increases, the official said. They are:

1. If the landlord makes a major capital improvement. This provision involves more than ordinary repair and maintenance, Goeman pointed out. However, an addition to the property, such as a new room or sleeping porch, or complete remodeling, would qualify.
2. If the landlord can show a substantial increase in services or equipment. The addition of furniture or other furnishings which were not included on the maximum rent date, would qualify a landlord for an increase.
3. If there is an increase in occupants. Where the number of people living in a dwelling unit has increased since the maximum rent date so there are now more people living in it than normally occupy a unit of this type, the landlord is entitled to an increase.
4. If the tenant rents to a subtenant. The landlord whose tenants rent to subtenants may secure an increase as his share of this profit, provided there were no subtenants on the maximum rent date, or provided there are more subtenants now than then. Rents charged to subtenants are, of course, subject to rent control.
5. If the landlord can show his rent is substantially below that charged for similar rental units in his neighborhood. In this case the landlord may secure an adjustment up to the prevailing rate.
6. If the landlord's taxes, insurance and other operating costs have increased. An adjustment upward will be made to compensate the landlord for his increase in expense.

The rent director added that there are other situations which a landlord may utilize to gain rent increases, although few of them are applicable in this area.

The rent office staff shall assist landlords in filing the necessary petitions for an increase. However, increases may not be made by the landlord until written approval has been given. Every effort will be made to process petitions for increases in a minimum of time, the area rent director promised.

Although it is a primary purpose of the Office of Rent Stabilization to protect tenants from rent gouging, the rent office operates on the principle that all landlords are entitled to fair net operating income from their property, the director added.

"Any landlord who feels that the rent office has not granted him

The Cameron Herald
THURSDAY, APRIL 16, 1953

an increase to which he is entitled may appeal to the local rent advisory board," Goeman said. "This board of local citizens, who serve without pay from the government, has full authority to see that an equitable adjustment is made."

The area rent office is located at 4th and Avenue D, 2nd Floor Ratliff Building, Killeen, Texas. Telephone Killeen 2931.

Katherine Sutter, Carroll Cox Exchange Vows at St. Monica's

St. Monica's Church was the scene of a pretty spring wedding when Miss Katherine Sutter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sutter of Cameron, became the bride of Carroll Cox, son of Mrs. Paul Cox and the late Mr. Cox of Temple, on Wednesday, April 8, at 9 a. m.

Rev. George Duda read the double ring ceremony and Rev. Clyde Holtmann said the nuptial mass.

The church was decorated with arrangements of pink hydrangeas and fern.

In addition to the wedding marches, the organist played "Ave Maria," "Mother, At Your Feet Is Kneeling," and "O, Lord, I Am Not Worthy."

The bride was attired in a dress of white bridal satin, accented with lace sleeves and a lace overskirt. The neckline was fashioned with small satin scallops attached to a net yoke. Her veil of nylon net, attached to a fitted satin cap, was fingertip length. She wore 80 year old gold earrings belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. S. J. Henry of Cameron.

For her bouquet, the bride carried a white prayer book centered with a delicate white orchid and showered with stephanotis. The prayer book and pearl rosary were gifts of the groom.

The attendants' dresses were patterned after the bridal gown. Mrs. Orlo Lang of Waseca, Minnesota, matron of honor, wore yellow moire taffeta with an overskirt of matching net. Miss Mildred Bishop of Waco and Mrs. Wilbert Sutter of Roswell, New Mexico, bridesmaids, wore dresses of blue and pink moire with corresponding overskirts.

The attendants carried bouquets of chrysanthemums which matched their dresses and wore matching coronets of mums in their hair. To complete her attire, each wore earrings, gifts of the bride.

Johnny Sutter, brother of the bride, was best man. The groomsmen were Wilbert Sutter of Roswell, New Mexico and Edward Sutter of Dallas, also brothers of the bride. They wore dark suits and cuff links given to them by the groom.

Mrs. John Sutter, mother of the bride, wore a dress of navy blue puffed nylon. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mrs. Paul Cox, mother of the groom, wore a corsage of white gardenias on her black dress.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The serving table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a large arrangement of white chrysanthemums. The decorated white wedding cake was of four tiers. Mrs. Charles Schindler and Miss Jo Ann Bishop served the refreshments. About forty guests attended the reception. Out of town guests for the occasion included persons from Irving, Tolar, Mexia, California, New Mexico, and Minnesota.

After the reception the couple left on a five day trip to Shreveport, La., Dallas, and Fort Worth. They plan to make their home in Cameron.

The bride graduated from Yoe High School in 1948 and from Providence School of Nursing in Waco in 1951. At present she is employed at St. Edward Hospital in Cameron.

The groom served several years in the army in World War II. He is at present a patient in the McCloskey Veterans' Hospital in Temple.

Polio Cases in Texas Far Below 1952 Mark

Texas reported Tuesday a total of only 78 cases of polio for 1953 compared with 298 cases for the same period in 1952.

Although Texas shows only 26 per cent as many attacks as of now, infantile paralysis is running higher than this time last year throughout the rest of the United States.

According to a report released Tuesday by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, there are 1,593 cases in the United States as compared with 1,320 cases as of April, 1952.

TP&L Annual Report Shows Great Cen-Tex Industrial Development

Continued growth of the area served by Texas Power & Light Company is reflected in its 1952 annual report to stockholders, mailed this week. The report calls special attention to the industrial development taking place throughout the 52-county area of north, central and east Texas, citing the number of industrial plants locating here and the wide range of products manufactured and processed.

Initial production of aluminum from two completed potlines of Alcoa's plant at Rockdale is named as the largest operation which began during 1952. The report listed some 15 other new industrial plants in the area served, including the van der Horst Corporation of America, porous chrome plating plant at Terrell; Texas Quarries, Inc., stone fabricating plant at Carrollton; Hyde Corporation trailer plant at Cleburne; Westinghouse Electric Corporation lamp parts plant at Paris; Lindo Jo Shoe Company plant at Gainesville; Line Material Company fiber duct plant at Sherman; Volney Felt Mills roofing plant at Irving; Conway Oil Company vegetable oil processing plant at Denison; Texas Tubular Products pipe fittings plant at Tyler; Westway Sports-Wear, Inc., dress manufacturing plant at Cleburne; Arabol Manufacturing Company adhesive products plant at Itasca; Lone Star Phosphate Company plant at Nacogdoches; Glaucober of Texas, Inc., new brass fitting plant at Tyler; TRC Materials Company asphalt plant at Rogers and Norman-Ford Company optical prism plant at Tyler.

The report pointed out that construction was started on several other plants, such as, Babcock & Wilcox Company, manufacturers of boilers and boiler equipment, at Paris; Southwestern Plastic Pipe Co., Mineral Wells; Supreme Trailer Company at Bonham; Rockwell Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of valves for oil field use, at Sulphur Springs; Texas Wire & Cable Company, Plano, manufacturers of rolled copper wire; and Texas Aluminum Company's aluminum extrusion plant at Rockwall. It was announced in December, 1952, that the General Electric Company will establish a large plant at Tyler to manufacture fans and other motor-driven appliances.

Construction costs during the year amounted to $22,908,579 and included the installation of 209 miles of transmission lines and construction work on major power plants, one near Waco, to be completed in the spring of 1953, and another in Red River County. The report stated that equipment was on order for another power plant to be built in North Texas.

Proceeds from the sale of 19 million dollars in mortgage bonds and debentures issued in 1952, together with three million dollars added to the common stock, were used to repay short-term loans and in financing the expansion program.

Total operating revenues were $33,695,256, or 10.1 per cent over 1951; with nearly half of the increase produced by residential and farm service. Widespread use of electric cooking, air conditioning and other services as well as a gain in the average number of such customers accounted for this.

The number of customers served increased 7,361 during the year, and at the end of the year the company was serving 233,167 customers. These customers used a total of 1,381,153,000 kilowatt-hours, an increase of 189,817,000 such hours over the previous year.

Taxes totaled $8,771,994.35, or slightly more than 26 per cent of the total operating revenue.

TRADE IN CAMERON

THE VITAMIN FOR GROWTH

By Science Features

It's almost an axiom that Americans are the best-fed people in the world. But being "best-fed" does not necessarily mean being "best-nourished," as a study of Cleveland schoolchildren recently demonstrated.

The study was conducted by Dr. Norman E. Wetzel, a world authority on child growth. Over a period of years, Dr. Wetzel kept a close check on the growth of a group of schoolchildren living in Shaker Heights, a well-to-do residential section of Cleveland.

He found that one out of every three children studied suffered from what he terms "growth failure." In 50 per cent of the cases, Dr. Wetzel was unable to pin down any direct cause, such as disease, for this failure. The children all came from homes where they received plenty of nourishing food.

How fast should a child grow? Dr. Wetzel says that each child has his own "proper" growth pattern, which can be predicted by means of a complicated chart. He adds that growth failure, once established, "tends to persist and get worse," lowering physique, physical vigor and slowing down the progress of all growth and development—including scholastic.

In an attempt to combat this problem, Dr. Wetzel chose 20 children, whose growth pattern had been measured over a period of years and who had been found to be suffering from growth failure. These children were given a tiny amount of vitamin B12 daily for 16 weeks. In that time, 16 of the children gained almost two months' extra growth. Four other children not given B12 showed no gain, and continued to lose ground.

Of special interest is the fact that parents and teachers of the children reported improved behavior, greater alertness, and better scholastic work after treatment with B12.

At the conclusion of the games, Mrs. L. S. Slama won high score and the 84 prize. Second high went to Mrs. W. W. Balhorn. Table cuts were lovely bread trays and were won by Mrs. John Matyastik, Mrs. Pete Bergum, and Mrs. W. W. Balhorn.

CAMERA TOPICS

By T. T. Holden

The circus lends itself particularly to color shots. Even in black and white, this prize winner in the 1952 Graflex Color Photo Contest by Joseph Costa, is a beauty.

TAKE YOUR CAMERA AND KIDS TO THE CIRCUS

Probably the most exciting day in any youngster's life is that first visit to the circus. The mass of color, clowns and cotton candy leave him oblivious to anything going around him. This is a golden opportunity for you to bring along your camera and shoot a picture story of circus action mirrored in the mobile face of a youngster.

You can start your day with a shot of your leaving the house. Follow this up with a picture taken outside of the ticket booth or tent and another in the menagerie just prior to the show.

Try to seat yourself so that you can take pictures at his eye level. Avoid shooting from above. Get close enough so that the image is large, but not too close so that you interfere with his view. Four to six feet is about the optimum distance. Keep your camera cocked and ready for action—and wait. It takes patience, but the pictures you want will develop from your waiting.

A large part of your success will depend on whether or not you plan a shooting script in advance of your circus visit. The ideal script involves visualizing beforehand most of the important things that will happen during your day at the circus. This is not difficult and with a little imagination you can effectively block out the tour. Think of your script as containing the basic minimum elements that will make up the story but feel free to add pictures of anything unexpected that may come up.

The eventful hours of a child's first visit to the circus can be turned into an interesting and memorable picture story which will be recalled long after single pictures have lost their interest.
